A New Era in Advancing Frontiers of Knowledge

FOR more than five decades, the University of California San Diego has leveraged a culture of collaboration, risk taking and innovation to transform the economic, social, cultural and health-care experiences of the communities we serve. Today, UC San Diego ranks first in the nation for positive impact, by Washington Monthly’s College Guide, and Chancellor Pradeep K. Khosla leads us into the decades ahead with shared determination to build on that legacy of excellence.

This fall, two landmark achievements will help to propel our campus vision for planet-changing impact as one of the world’s leading public research universities.

The United States Navy’s newest oceanographic research vessel, Sally Ride, sailed down the California coast in August toward its designated home at Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Sally Ride is the first new vessel received by Scripps since research vessel Roger Revelle joined its fleet in 1995, and its advanced technology — some never before deployed by oceanic vessels — will play a vital role in UC San Diego’s continued leadership in understanding and protecting our planet and advancing science for the benefit of humankind.

And on Sept. 23, the powerful partnership between UC San Diego and more than 1,000 donors advanced its mission to transform health care in the region as we dedicated the state-of-the-art Jacobs Medical Center.

The 509,500-square-foot facility will provide next-generation specialized cancer, surgical, and women and infants care. The realization of this project truly exemplifies the extraordinary power of philanthropy, including leadership gifts from Joan and Irwin Jacobs, Carol Vassiliadis and Pauline Foster, and the inspiration of visionary supporters who believe in UC San Diego’s vision to create a healthier world. Together, in addition to dedicating the Jacobs Medical Center, we also celebrate our philanthropic champions in the community and UC San Diego’s commitment to shape the future of health care through new science, medicine and cures.
Message from the Chancellor

SINCE our founding more than 50 years ago, UC San Diego has been shaped by exceptional scholars who aren’t afraid to push boundaries, challenge expectations and redefine conventional wisdom in order to make our world better.

Since 1966, Chancellor’s Associates have been our loyal partners in this effort, driven by that same shared sense of curiosity and passion. Your support over the years has been transformative, enabling us to educate the next generation of leaders, protect our planet, improve health care, find new ways to enrich society and so much more. We would not be where we are today — one of the world’s top research universities and ranked first in the nation for positive impact — without your loyal and steadfast support.

While Chancellor’s Associates’ 50th anniversary is a time to celebrate all that you have helped UC San Diego accomplish, I am most excited to think about what lies ahead. What new paths will we forge together in the future? What problems will we solve, what lives will we change? With our culture of collaboration and the courage to create, there is no limit to what we can dream and what we can do.

Thank you for sharing this journey with us.

With kind regards,

Pradeep K. Khosla, Chancellor
University of California San Diego

From Your Chancellor’s Associates Chair

THE 50th year of UC San Diego Chancellor’s Associates is off to a celebratory start. Events and initiatives commemorating this milestone anniversary are underway, and it has been wonderful to spend time with those of you taking part in our early activities! I offer my heartfelt thanks to Chancellor Pradeep K. Khosla, Vice Chancellor David Brenner and Guy Masters for providing Fall Celebration attendees with an insider’s perspective on the future of education, discovery and world-changing impact on the UC San Diego campus. The possibilities are truly awe-inspiring.

I am grateful to each of you for your efforts toward the achievement of our ambitious goals for growing our membership. We convened the first meeting of the Chancellor’s Associates Council on July 22, and I can assure you there is no shortage of philanthropic vision or enthusiasm among this dedicated group of volunteers!

Because of the strong bonds Chancellor’s Associates are able to form with the campus, we are uniquely suited among the university’s supporters to serve as UC San Diego ambassadors. I hope you will join the council and me in encouraging friends, fellow alumni and like-minded community members to support UC San Diego Chancellor’s Associates and, in turn, the university’s world-class faculty, research and students.

Best,
Linda Masters
Introducing Chancellor’s Associates Council

INAUGURAL members of the UC San Diego Chancellor’s Associates Council have generously stepped forward to offer their time and advocacy to grow the Chancellor’s Associates membership and its essential support of campus priorities.

Council members will play a crucial role in helping to identify and inspire friends in the community to join Chancellor’s Associates in advancing Chancellor Pradeep K. Khosla’s vision for excellence. A note of thanks to alumnus Charles Johnson, who has taken the mantle as Chancellor’s Associates co-chair to lead the efforts to expand the alumni presence among our membership and increase scholarship funding, for which he is especially passionate.

Our wholehearted appreciation to our phenomenal volunteer leaders!

The Gift of Education

WHEN you became members of Chancellor’s Associates, you also joined a campus community dedicated to providing access to a UC San Diego education for students of all backgrounds, through scholarships and a robust program of resources to ensure their academic success. The Chancellor’s Associates Scholars program funds scholarships that, when paired with the UC Blue + Gold Opportunity plan, cover tuition and fees for students whose families earn less than $80,000. And the university backs up its commitment once scholarship recipients arrive on campus, with services including peer mentoring, a dedicated study lounge, critical thinking and communication courses, financial aid and academic counseling, priority enrollment and guaranteed on-campus housing.

Expanding the Chancellor’s Associates Scholars program is among Chancellor Pradeep K. Khosla’s highest priorities and one of Chancellor’s Associates’ greatest opportunities for enduring impact. Since 2013, your support has ignited the promise of higher education for 209 students pursuing their dreams of a UC San Diego education. Thanks to you, with the addition of 184 freshmen and transfer students in fall 2016, the incoming Chancellor’s Associates Scholars cohort has increased by 88 percent.

Commemorating 50 Years of UC San Diego Chancellor’s Associates

IN honor of our golden anniversary, we are asking you to consider increasing your support of Chancellor’s Associates and the life-changing scholarships we are able to provide high-achieving, deserving local students. In appreciation, we are pleased to offer additional courtesies at the Fellow’s and Nobel Circle levels:

• Increase your support to the Fellow’s Circle level ($5,000) and receive invitations to VIP campus events.

• Increase your giving to the Nobel Circle level ($10,000) and receive an invitation to a Chancellor’s Associates dinner with Chancellor Pradeep K. Khosla at Audrey Geisel University House on March 22, 2017.

Thank you for your thoughtful support of UC San Diego Chancellor’s Associates!

Chancellor’s Associates Endowed Chairs:
Your Philanthropy Advancing Excellence

FOR more than three decades, Chancellor’s Associates endowed chairs have helped UC San Diego attract and retain globally distinguished faculty. Since 1983, Chancellor’s Associates has funded the establishment of nine endowed chairs across UC San Diego, supporting our stellar faculty and sparking creativity and discovery in the areas of cognitive science, arts and humanities, molecular biology, academic affairs, chemistry and biochemistry, biological sciences and mathematics.

A 500-year tradition in higher education, endowed chairs are vital assets in the highly competitive faculty recruitment environment. The endowments provide chair holders with a dedicated, perpetual source of funding for research, teaching and graduate student fellowships. For junior faculty, endowed fellowships offer early career funding that supports their research and scholarly activity as they work toward tenure.

In February 2016, Chancellor Pradeep K. Khosla launched the Chancellor’s Endowed Chair and Faculty Fellowship Challenge with the goal of creating 40 new endowed chairs and 40 endowed faculty fellowships across the general campus, Health Sciences and Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Throughout the term of the challenge, which concludes in December 2017, the campus will contribute an additional $500,000 to establish chairs with philanthropic investments of $1 million for the general campus and $2 million for Health Sciences and Scripps Institution of Oceanography. Chancellor Khosla also has committed a $250,000 match for endowed faculty fellowships founded with $250,000 in donor support.

Endowed chairs and fellowships will be key to growing UC San Diego’s world-renowned faculty and spurring leading-edge teaching, innovation and discovery on our campus. Your support today builds on Chancellor’s Associates’ legacy of excellence at UC San Diego.
